RHONDA JAGGERS AND JOHNNA BELTER scramble for a loose ball in last week's season-ending tournament defeat at the hands of Rustburg.

Fall to Rustburg

Girls finish 'proud' season

An 18-point third quarter by the Rustburg team, answered by only 13 points from the Raiderettes put the Devilettes ahead 40-28. The local girls pulled to within four points in the final period of play, but "ran out of steam." according to Tolley.

"Still, I think we played a good game," the coach said after the contest. "The girls deserve a lot of credit: several of them were playing sick," she continued.

Appomattox gathered in an astounding 41 rebounds, to Rustburg's 16. Annette Carter collected 10, Debbie Smith had 11 rebounds, Susan Handy recorded seven, and Rhonda Jaggers gathered in eight.

"We just couldn't penetrate their tough man-to-man defense," coach Tolley commented.

"But I commend the girls on an excellent season. We won 13 games and only lost seven, we outscored our opponents 940 to 867 (an average of 43 to 39), and averaged 11 steals and 30 rebounds a game. I'm proud of this team," the coach concluded.

Hotline provides energy answers

By BECK HUDSON

Citizens are battling high fuel costs with a free phone call to the Energy Hot Line 1-800-552-3831.

Savings of thirty per cent have been reported by homeowners armed with the Honest Sam Computer Analysis and Do-It-Yourself Packet from the State Division of Energy.

In this county, as well as across the state, wood stoves are a hot item now so there has been added-a-new publication, "Home Heating With Wood", according to Energy Division Director Temple Bayliss.

The Appomattox Anti-Cold Homes Program has provided fuel for many families in this county, families who could not afford the cost of a load of wood or to fill up their oil tank, families who did not qualify for welfare assistance.

Civic organizations, churches, clubs, and individuals have made donations of wood or cash donations to this locally sponsored project and it has really proven helpful to many needy families in the county, according to W. R. Britton, Jr., chairman of the Appomattox Anti-Cold Homes Program.

"The committee heading up this project is most appreciative of the concern that has been shown for those who are less fortunate than you," added Britton.

Heating with wood is an investment in time and money. Stove safety and efficiency, and wood supply should be considered by those using wood burning stoves.

The Honest Sam Computer Analysis is pinpointing where heat losses occur based on information provided by the homeowner. The computer recommends those improvements that will save money, taking the guesswork out of making energy saving improvements.

The value of the computer service is that it advises which improvements will not save money. Knowing what not to do can save as much money as knowing what to do.

For the do-it-yourselfer, according to the Division of Energy, the 80-page guide provides step by step instructions for caulking, weatherstripping and insulating. Used in conjunction with the computer analysis, the guide helps the homeowner save even more money.

Citizens may request the services, or obtain answers to individual questions, by dialing the Energy Division toll-free 1-800-552-3831, or by writing Energy, 310 Turner Road, Richmond, Va. 23225.

Annual Farmers confab

Bank shareholders meet

The Farmers National Bank of Appomattox held its annual shareholders meeting on Tuesday, Feb. 19, at 2:30 p.m. at the Triangle Plaza Office. Management reported that total resources of the bank on Dec. 31, 1979 amounted to $27,202,474.83, a threefold increase over the past decade. It was also reported that dividends on common stock increased to $2.00 per share in 1979.

Management discussed the change in the bank's accounting methods and the entry into electronic data processing. Management stated that these changes will have a fundamental impact on the bank's operations and will result in enhanced customer services.

A motion was passed setting the number of Directors at 14. Those elected for a one year term are: Watkins M. Abbitt, Eugene W. Carson, John C. Cole, J. Berkley Drinkard, Jr., T. Dewitt Evans, John S. Grinals, Alfred R. Harwood, Jr., William A. Hunter, J. E. Jamerson, William E. Jamerson, C. T. Moses, Jr., J. A. Mathews, James J. Pugh, Jr., and James A. Smith.

Following the annual shareholders meeting the Board of Directors held an organizational meeting. Officers elected for the coming year are: Alfred R. Harwood, Jr., Chairman of the Board; J. E. Jamerson, Vice-Chairman of the Board; William A. Hunter, President; James J. Pugh, Jr., Vice-President and Branch Manager; Douglas M. Webb, Assistant Vice-President; Eleanor C. Conner, Cashier; Patsy S. Harvey, Assistant Cashier; Mary S. Hudson, Assistant Cashier and Auditor; Loretta D. Layne, Assistant Cashier; and Ellen R. Martin, Assistant Cashier.

The bank wishes to express its appreciation to its shareholders and customers for their sustained support and loyalty. Being Appomattox's only independent community bank, Farmers National looks foward to serving the community in the year to come.

Elon Church holds death and dying emphasis

Elon Baptist Church in Pamplin will conduct a special emphasis on the theme of death and dying during the month of March. The pastor, Bill Trimyer, will present a series of sermons on death and dying from a Christian perspective the first four Sundays of the month.

Speical resource people have been invited to lead discussions and workshops on Sunday evenings. On March 2 the pastor will lead a discussion on "Talking With Children About Death." Mr. Richard Robinson of Robinson Funeral Home will lead a discussion on March 9 on the theme, "Death and Dying from the Perspective of a Funeral Director." On March 16 the church will hear Dr. Ken Powell discuss "Death and Dying from the Perspective of a Physician." The Rev. Carl Patton, pastor of Hebron Baptist Church, will lead a discussion on March 23 on the subject, "Coping with Our Aging Loved Ones." The evening discussions will begin at 7 p.m.

The pastor and the deacons of the church are also putting together a practical booklet entitled, "When a Loved One Dies..." The material in the book is designed to offer helpful suggestions for preparing and facing death. Anyone interested may share in these special learning opportunities.

Christ In Us
Telling others about your mistakes,
Seeking to guide them along
Is not very helpful
To the surging throng.
But...living before them

Pinewood derby held

APPOMATTOX CUB SCOUT PACK 548 held their annual Pinewood Derby Saturday, Feb. 2, at the Appomattox Elementary School gym. Each Cub Scout had been given a kit containing a block of wood and wheels to make a car. The Cub Scouts, with the help of their fathers, made cars to enter in the derby race. All participants received blue ribbons for entering the race. The cars were judged in two categories: speed and craftmanship. The first place winner for speed was Terry Guthrie, second place winner was Ben Baxter, and the third place winner was Tommy Franklin. The first place winner for craftmanship was Shawn Walker, second place winner was Timmy Franklin, and third place winner was Kevin Hansen. The Cub Scouts would like to thank Mr. Charles Moses for judging the craftmanship.

National Opera to visit Longwood

Longwood College's Series of the Performing Arts will feature the National Opera Company in Puccini's La Boheme on Monday evening, March 3, at 8 o'clock in Jarman Auditorium.

The National Opera Company is a troupe of 12 engaging young performers chosen from nationwide auditions. They have brought opera in English to audiences throughout the U. S.

The Company was founded in 1948 by a Raleigh, N. C., attorney and businessman, the late A. J. Fletcher. His aims for the company were simple: to introduce opera as an art form to North Carolina school children; to create audiences by presenting opera in the language of the audience; and to give experience and employment to young artists.

The results have been outstanding. In annual tours covering most of the U. S., these professional troupes have performed over 2,200 times, bringing opera to smaller towns and communities that have never before witnessed live operatic performances. Former singers with the troupe have gone on to larger opera companies throughout the world.

La Boheme is one of Puccini's most attractive works. The characters are said to be fairly accurate portraits of artists and other inhabitants of the Latin Quarter of 19th century Paris.

General admission tickets ($2.50 each) will be available at the Student Union Office, Lankford Building, beginning Feb. 26, or may be purchased at the box office in Jarman on the night of the performance.

Craftsman's exhibit slated

Fiberart, a touring exhibit of wearables, hangings, and paper by Virginia craftsmen, is currently on display in the Bedford Gallery at Longwood College.

The exhibit, which includes the work of 27 craftsmen, is open to the public through March 19. Gallery hours are 9 a.m. to 12 noon and 1 to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday, and 2 to 6 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday.

The show was put together by Lynn Yeatts, of Roanoke, with the help of the Virginia Crafts Council. Mrs. Yeatts is assistant professor of art at Virginia Tech and co-owner with her husband of the Yeatts Gallery in Roanoke.

The current interest in wearable and touchable art, according to Mrs. Yeatts, is a reaction to the impersonal nature of the modern world, an attempt to "humanize and individualize our spaces and lifestyles." Fiber art, with its warm colors and textures, is a welcome contrast to the hard surfaces in many public buildings, as well as in homes.

A variety of media and techniques have been used by the artists, including weaving, applique, stitched batik, knotting, and others. The wearables on display include jackets, T-shirts, blouses, shawls, and a neckpiece.

The exhibit has already been shown at the Yeatts Gallery and at James Madison University. After closing at Longwood, it will go to Virginia Tech.
